“ We so enjoyed being friends and neighbors with Merlene and Gary over the years. They were always kind and upbeat about life. Their sense of humor was a great source of relief from the pressures of the world and life's daily struggles. They were always more concerned about how we were doing than about their own challenges. They were kind and loving and eager to find good in people. Our association for over forty years was always positive and supportive. Even these last few years since Gary passed away, Merlene offered encouragement via the telephone. We will certainly miss both of them.

“ I have been so blessed to know Merlene and share of her goodness. I admire her many traits, she is kind, compassionate, graceful, generous, a seer of good in others, and she so tenderly loved and took care of her family. I have always been moved by her constant ability to show happiness and a positive attitude even through her life struggles with loss of family and her illness. She would always express gratitude for how blessed she was and would identify the good things happening in her life, amidst her own challenges. Every time we visited, she always sincerely asked about how each member of my family was doing. I commented to Merlene several times while visiting with her about how her face always has such a glowing radiance - despite what may be going on in her life at the time she always kept that radiance. She influenced me to want to be a better person after being around her. I will miss my friend Merlene.
